LAST OF HIS NAME, COLONEL VICTOR VAN DE MALE DIES

Native of Belgium and Popular Traveling Salesman For Many Years.

He Succumbs to Stroke of Paralysis.

FUNERAL IS TO BE SATURDAY

After being in the shadow of death several days, Col. Victor Van de Male, 70 years old, a traveling salesman for 36 years, died this morning at 10 o'clock at Hotel Craig. A stroke of paralysis that he sustained late Tuesday afternoon, was the cause of his death, although he had been in a serious condition for five months. His health began to fail several years ago.

He was a man who could not count his friends, for he spent most of his life traveling and was known over a wide territory. His ability to make friends was strong, and his jovial disposition made him popular. As a salesman he traveled for 36 years mostly out of Paducah.

Colonel Van de Male was born in Antwerp, Belgium, in 1839, but with his father immigrated to this country in 1849, locating in St. Louis, where he grew to manhood. At the completion of his college days he served as a salesman until the outbreak of the Civil war, when he joined a Confederate company organized in Missouri. However, he served only about 18 months and then located in Columbus, Mo., in 1865. He was married first to Miss Ellen Simms and a daughter, Mrs. Charles M. Stanley survives. He was married a second time to Miss Annie Thompson, a daughter of Wilson Thompson April 23, 1875. After a short residence in St. Louis he removed to Paducah and had resided here since December 24, 1896. He was married to Miss Ella Gray, a sister of Mrs. W. C. Gray.

His death ends the Van de Male family as neither in Europe nor America is there a person bearing the name, besides Mrs. Van de Male who survives her husband. Only a few relatives survive. He outlived his brother. A daughter, Mrs. Charles M. Stanley, and her husband of Providence, R. I., are expected to arrive Friday night for the funeral and burial. One sister, Mrs. Bertine Vannourck, of Detroit, also survives and she was the nearest relative. In St. Louis he leaves three nephews: Messrs. A. G. Hols, P. C. Hols and P. O. Hols.

Although popular and an excellent mixer with people, Col. Van de Male was not a member of any fraternal lodges. He was a member of the First Baptist church, and the funeral will be held by the pastor, the Rev. M. E. Dodd. Owing to the fact that his daughter can not arrive before Friday night the funeral will not be held before Saturday. The burial will be in Oak Grove cemetery.

Mrs. Catherine Evans.

Mrs. Catherine Matilda Evans, aged 53, of Twenty-seventh and Tennessee streets, died at 11:30 o'clock last night of consumption after a several months' illness. She was a member of the Fountain Avenue Methodist church and had resided in Paducah for 25 years, moving to this city from Tennessee, her birth place. She leaves one son, Mr. Oscar Evans, a harnessmaker; her father, Mr. William Kyle, two sisters, Mrs. McClintock of this city, and Mrs. Ida Trece, of New Albany, Ind., and two brothers, Messrs. Robert and Elvin Kyle, of El Paso, Tex.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at the residence, the Rev. George W. Banks, pastor of the Fountain Avenue Methodist church officiating. Burial will be at Oak Grove cemetery.

The Weather

A strong wind followed by lightning with heavy claps of thunder and a drizzling rain played over Paducah and vicinity for two hours last night, slackening about midnight. Little damage was done in this vicinity except the usual pranks of lightning. Rainfall measured .46 of an inch. The forecast is: Fair tonight and Friday; cooler Friday. Maximum temperature today, 73; minimum, 59.

Illinois: Washington, Sept. 23.—Partly cloudy Thursday with cooler in southern portion; Friday warmer; moderate west winds becoming variable.

Sun and Moon.

Moon will rise tonight, 12:36 a.m.

Police Inspector Edward McCann, of Chicago, Found Guilty of Graft by Jury After Night of Balloting

Louis Frank, Dive Keeper, Declared He Collected Protection Money for Prisoner—Defense Said Revenge.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Police Inspector McCann was found guilty this morning of accepting bribes for vice permits in the Deaplin street vice center.

The verdict of guilty means a sentence of from one to five years. Attorneys for the inspector have asked for a new trial. Judge Barnes set the hearing of the motion next week letting the original bond release him in the meantime. McCann's attorneys say if a retrial is not granted they will appeal.

The McCann jury was in a deadlock all night, nine for acquittal and three for conviction. At 9:30 the jury asked for additional instructions of Judge Barnes. There was hallooting all night and not a change of count. McCann stayed at his attorney's home, receiving the news philosophically. The jury was given additional instructions and returned to the room.

The fight centered about the testimony of Louis Frank, a dive keeper, who declared he was the agent of McCann in collecting "protection" money. The defense claimed that McCann was the victim of a conspiracy of the west side resort keepers, who wished to get rid of him, because he was strict. Settlement house workers stood by McCann.

In referring to Louis Frank, Attorney J. Hamilton Lewis for the defense, said:

"Beginning as a bartender in the saloon of his brother—one of them—and the other selling whisky from a wagon in the street, they graduated and gravitated into a line of business which, although permitted by the laws of this state, is the absolute death dealing foe of every young man who comes within its influence. They continued until they present themselves to you eventually as the owners of the most flagrant and inviting saloon for vice and corruption that the city of Chicago can afford."

"From the barrel house with snow dust on its floor they have progressed to the point where they occupy a place, with appointments of the most luxurious description. We follow their course until a point is reached where they confess that they are millionaires, making $7,500 a month from this saloon, nearly $3,000 a month, $36,000 a year. And St. Louis he leaves three nephews: Messrs. A. G. Hols, P. C. Hols and P. O. Hols."

"They have amassed this fortune out of the blood and tears of depraved and fallen women, and they have become so potent that they can demand of a banker that he shall come and certify, notwithstanding their present character, that they are above reproach."

"Louis Frank had been holding himself out as the despot, the king"

Peary Receives Warm Welcome Back Home

Portland, Me., Sept. 23.—The train bearing Peary crossed the border at 9:30 this morning. It is his first time in Maine in nearly two years. At many stations curious throngs gathered to secure a glimpse. The first formal reception was at Bangor, at 1:15. He was met by Mayor Woodman and the city council and a welcoming committee, and escorted through the streets filled with cheering people to the Bangor house, where luncheon was served. On the balcony, where thousands could see, they presented a silver loving cup. At 3:40 he will board the train for Portland.

Day of Atonement

Special services will mark the celebration of the Day of Atonement by the Jews at Temple Israel. The rabbi, Dr. Meyer Lovitch, will preach Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock on "The Triple Atonement," while Saturday services will be held throughout the day. Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock a special sermon will be preached on "I Am a Hebrew," while in the afternoon at 3:30 a special service with a memorial service will be held for the dead. Special music will be a feature of every service. The Day of Atonement is one of the most strictly observed of the Jewish holidays.

GRANT TESTOTIER.
Chicago, Sept. 23.—Maj. Gen. Frederick Dent Grant, son of famous U. S. Grant, is being boomed at the fortieth anniversary celebration of the Prohibition party for president. Grant has said and has been quoted in print as favoring teetotalism.

of the levee, the political manipulator, the great boss of crime and criminality," he went on, "and yet counsel refers to him as this poor invalid having only the trait of his race, the art of making money. God help me that I might not ascribe the only trait of his race as the art of making money out of the souls of fallen and prostrate girls and women!"

"Gentlemen, the Franks in this case are before you. They realize their situation; they brought this accusation for the purpose of venting their vengeance, and they must succeed by any means at their hands. Oh, they realize it is the end of their power over those people. Yes, it will end. No more falsehood or imposition."

The State's Side.

State's Attorney Wayman, for the prosecution, said:
"Frank is not running a Sunday school at Haled and Madison streets but he is running just as respectable place, if the court please, as there is run right under the eaves of the city hall, where within my administration—within the last six months—a police officer has been shot down in cold blood and the man that threw the bomb was arrested. I say, just as respectable. I am not defending saloons, but if you are going to draw invidious comparisons here, I will

Perkins' Creek Bridge

All but the floor supports have been removed from the new concrete bridge over Perkins' creek by Bert Johnson, the sub-contractor, who says he will be ready for an inspection by next Thursday. However, he said he would not permit traffic over the bridge at his risk, and it will not be thrown open for the public until after the county has accepted the work. The concrete will be sufficiently dry to remove the floor braces by next week. The contract was secured by the Vincennes Bridge company and was sub-let to Johnson.

RUSSIA DENIES MASSACRES OF JEWS ONCE MORE

Berlin, Sept. 23.—The Russian government today is repeating its Kishinev tactics, denying absolutely the massacre at Kief. Refugees bring in the truth.

At Waterville Colby college students have planned a big reception. Bowdoin college also had planned the train did not pass through Brunswick. He will arrive here at 7:40 this evening. Then the biggest reception will be given until the settlement of the controversy. There will be a banquet at Falmouth hotel then a reception in the auditorium. Governor Fernald and other dignitaries will attend. Tomorrow Peary and his family will go to Eagle Island for a few days by motor boat.

His Share of Profits

For his share of the profit in the repairing of the Lovelockville-Pleasure Station road, Dr. R. D. Harper, of the county, filed suit against Henry Scheer for $55.47. Dr. Harper alleges he and Scheer agreed to bid for the work, and on its acceptance to split the profit. He says he was a silent partner, but was to see that they got the contract, while Scheer was to oversee the work. The county road supervisor received the work, and he says the county paid $553.94, while $33 was collected by private subscription. Of the amount he says $170.94 was profit, and he seeks to have it divided, as he claims Scheer has failed to stand by the agreement.

COMMITTEE SAYS HURRAH FOR TAFT AND HE LOOKS OUT

Glenwood Springs Declines to be Missing From Presidential Itinerary.

He Didn't Get Bath, But They Got Speech.

CONSERVATION AT SPOKANE

Glenwood Springs, Col., Sept. 23.—President Taft reached here early this morning but was asleep. While the train stopped the program was waiting. Finally a reception committee went under the sleeper window and cheered lustily, wailing him. He gave a short speech before the train left. The program included a bath in the famous swimming pool, but it had to be called off. He will reach Montrose this afternoon to speak.

Crosses the Divide.

Pueblo, Col., Sept. 23.—President Taft crossed Continental Divide after traveling all day over the Rocky peaks and running at one point through fields of snow. The eleven mile ride through the Grand Canon of Arkansas was made by moonlight. The president was unaffected by the altitude and in a splendid health despite the unending series of breakfasts, luncheons and dinners. His voice is in prime condition.

At Colorado Springs the president briefly addressed in a public park one of the largest crowds of the trip, then made an automobile tour to points of scenic interest. Arriving at Pueblo the president was driven to the state fair grounds and faced a throng, made a brief speech of appreciation of Colorado's reception.

Ballinger joined the president at Denver and will assist Taft at the opening of the Gunnison tunnel at Montrose, Col., the greatest irrigation project the government has ever undertaken.

Taft announced that he will not speak upon the conservation of natural resources until he reaches Spokane, September 28. It was at Spokane that the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy arose. Beyond saying that he had frequent correspondence with Pinchot, and that they always had been the warmest friends, Taft declined to comment upon the matter.

Thirty-two sheriffs of Colorado counties, in costumes of the plains, joined the party and surrounded the president at every stop. The sheriffs found bronchos waiting for them at each city visited.

In his Colorado Springs speech, the president said:

"This administration is pledged with the aid of the people to enact such legislation as shall clinch the advance in business standards and in the management of the railroads and industrial corporations, which was set in motion by my predecessor."

"I think we have made a great advance under his influence, but we must not stop. He took up the question of the conservation of our resources, and pledged all his efforts in direction of the scientific solution of these questions. Such a policy can not be brought to a culmination in one administration or two or three. All that each one can do while he is responsible is that his best efforts be devoted to carrying out these policies, not only to devoting the government's attention, but also in encouraging the use of private capital in the same direction."

Ministry to Resign.

Budapest, Sept. 23.—The resignation of the Alexander Wekerle ministry was decided upon at a cabinet council today. The ministry has remained in office up to the present time only on the special solicitation of the emperor-king, Francis Joseph.

Want Massacre Information.

Washington, Sept. 23.—The acting secretary of state sent a telegram to the American embassy in St. Petersburg asking for information in regard to the recent alleged massacre of Jews at Kief, and especially as to whether any Americans have suffered.

SPANISH TROOPS ARE RETREATING SEVERELY BEATEN

Paris, Sept. 23.—Spanish forces met severe defeat in Morocco and are now in full retreat, according to a report, reaching the French war office today.

Corpses Swept Up by Waves and Left in Rows on Beach of Gulf Near New Orleans In One Parish Boats Get Through From Hattiesburg and Learn Conditions—Harrowing Tales of Survivors of Storm.

Hattiesburg, Miss., Sept. 23.—Boats, reaching New Orleans, late yesterday report the greatest loss of life in the storm was at Terre Bonne parish where over 100 were drowned. Corpses were swept up by the waves and lie in rows on the beach. Hundreds there are homeless and without food.

The Crop Damage.

New Orleans, Sept. 23.—Reports today from the crop districts say the crop damage is more than ten millions, the greatest in history.

New Orleans, La., Sept. 23.—Gradually New Orleans and the territory surrounding the Crescent city is recovering from the effects of the shock and results of the tropical hurricane, which, starting Sunday, continued throughout Monday and Tuesday night. Thirty-eight human lives are now positively known to have been claimed as victims of the storm and fifty others are reported to have been drowned or perished under debris in lower Terre Bonne parish, but as yet this report has not been authenticated.

The property loss is even far heavier than was first believed, and instead of running into the hundreds of thousands it will run into the millions by the time the final details of havoc and destruction left in the wake of the hurricane are tallied.

Miles and miles of territory have been laid waste by the storm dema. Corpses have been left in rows on the beach.

Dwellings, cotton gins and sugar mills have been leveled to the earth, but already, with the progressive spirit of the south, the people have expressed the determination to repair as far as possible the damage wrought, and will in the end profit by the experience, harrowing as it was.

New Orleans Crippled.

New Orleans is still sadly crippled in the way of railroad facilities and telegraph and telephone communication with the outside world. It was not until last night that the Western Union Telegraph company was able to get a working wire out of the city. For several days the city's only communication with the outside was over an improvised long distance telephone circuit. The Illinois Central company is sending its north bound train over the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley tracks as far as Baton Rouge, and then detouring them across to Hammond, where the main line is tapped.

The Louisville and Nashville railroad is moving trains out of the city over the New Orleans and Northeastern. Both the Illinois Central and the Louisville and Nashville roads have suffered a heavy loss, miles of their tracks having been washed away. It will be several weeks or more before the Louisville and Nashville will again be running trains over their own tracks. The other railroads running out of the city are moving trains on schedule time, under caution orders.

It is the territory surrounding New Orleans, especially lower Terre Bonne parish, which now commands the attention of relief parties, scores of which left here Tuesday and today and from where the least bit of news

ROBBERS MURDER FAMILY AND BURN THEIR DWELLING

Bluefield, W. Va., Sept. 23.—A pack of bloodhounds and hundreds of citizens are following the trail through the mountains to capture a band of robbers, who brutally murdered George Meadows, a farmer, at O'Keefe, Buchanan county, his wife and three children, and Mrs. Meadows' aged mother. If captured they will be lynched. To conceal the murder the bodies were piled up, oil poured over and lighted and the house also was set on fire. Neighbors, rushing in, extinguished the flames and found his mother-in-law in the yard.

Verdict of Suicide.

Harrow, England, Sept. 23.—A verdict of suicide while temporarily insane was returned today by the coroner's jury in the death here, September 11, of Mrs. Lawrence Perlin, daughter of the late Victor A. Sartor of Philadelphia.

Lawrence Perlin said his wife suffered from insomnia.

is seized upon by the anxious people who have friends or relatives in the storm-stricken area.

Death List Growing.
Thrilling tales of narrow escapes and daring rescues came with the total of human lives in the section of the storm-swept area.

One of the victims of the storm in Terre Bonne parish was M. F. Smith of New Iberia, who, with his brother A. F. Smith, and a dozen friends made up a fishing party at Sen Breeze. The brother of the drowned man reached Houma, La., today bringing the sad news of his brother's death.

A half dozen or more fishing camps along the gulf in Terre Bonne parish were totally wrecked, fishing outfits being carried by the wind out for miles, and the fishermen are heavy sufferers, as all of their worldly possessions in the majority of cases were represented by these outfits. Pleasure craft and shipping of all kinds in the bayou inlets were totally destroyed and the loss will be heavy.

Storehouses, sugar mills and dwellings of every character at Houma and other villages suffered heavily and scarcely a structure was left whole or untouched by the hurricane. The damage done by the storm at Grand Island and Cheniere Caminada was very heavy, but at these places there was no loss of life.

The crops of these islands were totally destroyed, as the water swept across them two or three feet deep washing them away and the orange groves were whipped clean of fruit and foliage alike, hundreds of them being uprooted or broken short off to the ground, carried away with the fierce wind. The first news from these islands was received today when the mail steamer Grand Isle, commanded by Capt. Mike McSweney, reached this city. It was feared before the arrival of the boat that hundreds had lost their lives. In the tropical storm of 1893 no less than 1,500 people were drowned on Cheniere Caminada.

CHARGES WILL BE MADE AGAINST MR. FRANKE TONIGHT

Formal charges against Sewer Inspector A. Franke, supported by affidavits of G. H. Robertson, will be presented to the board of aldermen by Mayor Smith tonight; but the actual trial of Mr. Franke will take place at a date to be fixed by the board. On account of the nature of the charges and the fact that affidavits were submitted to the mayor, he had no choice but to submit the charges or arbitrarily refuse to consider the affidavit. It is necessary in order to get the case properly before the board of aldermen for the mayor to prefer the charges, but in this case this will be entirely formal, as the mayor has nothing to do with originating the charges. Mayor Smith said he had always considered Mr. Franke a faithful official.

A committee of the board of councilmen must be appointed to prosecute the case, and the accused must be given at least five days' notice before the day of the hearing. The trial is conducted with all the formality of a court of law.

Mr. Robertson in his affidavits accuses Mr. Franke of using the city's material and men to do work on his own barn and private work. Franke's friends insist that the charges are malicious.

Highest Telephone.

Geneva, Sept. 23.—The highest telephone in the world, running to the top of Monte Rosa to Queen Margherita observatory, more than 15,000 feet high, was placed in operation today. The observatory and telephone are both constructed for the queen, and took six weeks to complete. The line is a great help to Alpinists on Monte Rosa.

C. Hartley. L. B. Holt, Pat Ross, J. E. Leigh and Green Bonnett are candidates for the nomination, and the race is growing as hot as a race for governor. Victory is uncertain, but all of the candidates are fighting hard to carry the precinct.

Suspended For Attending Singing.

Benton, Ky., Sept. 23. (Special.)—Several children, who attended singing school conducted at night by John Jeffrey, were suspended from the public school, of which Prof. H. H. Lovett is principal. The reason is that the teachers think children, who go to the singing school cannot do justice to their regular school work. It is probable that the matter will be taken before the school board.

Christian Convention.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 23. (Special.)—The feature of today's session of the Kentucky Christian missionary convention is Sunday school work. There was a big parade of all Bible school pupils this afternoon, through the streets of Lexington. They will be addressed by Gano Buckner, of Owensboro.

Clark, of Maysville; second vice president, Sam Bernard of Madisonville; recording secretary B. W. Trimble, of Mt. Sterling; corresponding secretary, H. W. Elliott of Sulphur.

PASSENGER TRAIN STRIKES

What was thought an attempt to wreck the Fulton accommodation train at Wlago yesterday afternoon was only an accident. Near Wingo Engineer Joe Rindie struck a brake beam, but an investigation was made and it was found that the brake beam was dropped off a freight train which preceded the passenger train.

Mr. Lassiter's Health Fails

S.S.S. NATURE'S PERFECT TONIC

Something more than an ordinary tonic is required to restore health to a weakened, run-down system; the medicine must possess blood-purifying properties as well, because the weakness and impurity of the circulation is responsible for the poor physical condition. The blood does not contain the necessary quantity of rich, red corpuscles, and is therefore a weak, watery stream which cannot afford sufficient nourishment to sustain the system in ordinary health. A poorly nourished body cannot resist disease, and this explains why so many persons are attacked by a spell of sickness when the use of a good tonic would have prevented the trouble. In S.S.S. will be found both blood-cleansing and tonic qualities combined. It builds up weak constitutions by removing all impurities and germs from the blood, thus supplying a certain means for restoring strength and invigorating the system. The healthful, vegetable ingredients of which S.S.S. is composed make it splendidly fitted to the needs of those systems which are delicate from any cause. It is Nature's Perfect Tonic, free from all harmful minerals, a safe and pleasant acting medicine for persons of every age. S.S.S. rids the body of that tired, worn-out feeling so common at this season, improves the appetite and digestion, tones up the stomach, acts with pleasing effects on the nervous system, and reinvigorates every portion of the body.

NAVAL VESSELS IN THE HUDSON

FIFTY-TWO VESSELS OF U. S. NAVY WILL GATHER.

OF ALL THE VESSELS THERE

New York, Sept. 23.—The armada of war ships which will represent the United States at the Hudson-Fulton celebration steamed to anchor in the Hudson river above Grant's tomb. The Georgia led the fleet, followed by the battleships New Jersey, Nebraska, Rhode Island, Virginia, Wisconsin, Missouri and Ohio, and the armored cruisers Montana, North Carolina and New York, the scout cruisers Birmingham, Salem and Chester.

The flagship Connecticut led the second division composed of the Kansas, Minnesota, New Hampshire, Mississippi, Idaho and Vermont. Aster were the auxiliaries Culgoa, Prairie and Panther. The torpedo boats and submarines will arrive later. In all 52 vessels of the navy will be on the Hudson.

Powerful as are some of the American craft, none equals the British cruiser-huntship Indefatigable, Admiral Seymour's flagship, which will enter port tomorrow. Although armed with 12 inch guns the Indefatigable has a speed record equal to that of the Lusitania. Her battery is twice as powerful as any two American battleships.

The "Half Moon," a copy of Hudson's famous craft, was formally placed in commission today.

Mayor McClellan proclaimed the 25th and 30th holidays and urged business to close at noon, and give the employees an opportunity to witness the historical parades.

How Walter Camp Evolved the "Tackle-Back."

A very interesting page from the Yale football annuals is that which deals with the development of the famous "tackle-back" formation which in 1900 enabled Yale to defeat Princeton 29-0 and Harvard 28-0, writes William T. Reid, Jr., in the October American Magazine. He continues:

"The formation was the work of Walter Camp and, like the play just described, was based wholly upon the defensive play of Yale's opponents."

"When Mr. Camp first gave the plays to the Yale team there were many of the coaches who declared that while they would probably succeed against minor teams they would never work against the bigger ones. The plays were too slow and heavy, they said. The feeling grew and grew, until just before the Indian game there was strong talk of abandoning the formation altogether. Mr. Camp, however, held out for it and to show his faith promised that if Yale did not defeat the Indian team by 30 points he would himself agree to a change. The Indian game came and Yale won it 36-0. From that time on all criticism stopped and the 'tackle-back' became a permanent part of Yale's offense."

The bartender grasped the man next the stove by the shoulder and shook him until he was awake. "You won't get out, will you?" better go out and get some fresh air. "I'll do you good."

Zeph merely grunted, drunkenly, and huddled back in his chair. The bartender tried it again with like result.

"You won't get out, won't you?" he roared angrily. Seizing the unfortunate Zeph by the collar and the seat of the trousers, he escorted him forth to the alley. "Get out there in the air and brace up," was his parting advice.

"Y'kin put me out if y'like, but"—Zeph straightened up with drunken dignity—"ye can't make me take no air, dura ye!"—Everybody's Magazine.

Millions of Stomachs Refuse to Do Their Work Properly.

All over this broad land millions of stomach owners are being held in humiliating subjection just because they are so stubborn that they will not accept a fair, square and broad minded offer.

Life is short for all of us; it will be shorter for those who let their stomachs go from bad to worse.

Gilbert's drug store has a famous prescription called Mi-o-na and he believes so thoroughly in its remarkable curative power that he says to every owner of a distressed stomach that he will guarantee Mi-o-na tablets to cure acute or chronic indigestion and all stomach ailments or money back, and the price is only 50 cents a box.

And still there are stubborn people right in Paducah who won't accept this offer but continue to suffer from gas on stomach, belching of sour food, stomach pain, font breath, dizziness, biliousness and headaches just because—just because—that's all, there is no other reason.

Mi-o-na tablets stop dyspeptic agony in five minutes; they cure obstinate cases of indigestion and turn the old stomach into a new one in a few weeks—or money back.

Washington, Sept. 23.—The combination of puzzling pitching by Mullin and extraordinary hitting by Crawford, Cobb and Morlarity proved too much for Washington, and Detroit won easily. Mullin allowed but three hits, and with perfect fielding back of him he should have scored an easy shut out.

Dixie Walker, the recruit secured from Zanesville, was pounded to all corners by the Tigers. In the first few innings Walker pitched effectively, but in the fourth he began to weaken. In the eighth the game was won on a single by Cobb, a triple by Crawford and safeties by Morlarity and Schmidt. The Tigers gathered three in the ninth, making the game six. A running back-hand catch by L. Stelvert and a double play by Gessler and Schmidt.

Krause Steps St. Louis.

Philadelphia, Sept. 23.—St. Louis played Peltz at shortstop, and with Gilligan, a minor league recruit, in the box, was an easy winner for the pennant chasing Athletics. The locals won mainly because they bunched hits in three sessions and because eleven of the visitors fanned. The locals started the bombardment in the second, Itaker was an easy out. Davis walked, went to second on a passed ball and to third on a wild throw. He scored when Murphy singled.

McInnis rapped out a home run, scoring Murphy in ahead of him. St. Louis came right back. Davis fumbled Crompton's grounder and the runner was safe. Shotten singled to left, Hettmiller fumbling the ball. Both runners advanced a peg. Crompton scored on a sacrifice fly.

The visitors got their last in the fifth. Peltz singled, Griggs hit to McInnis and Peltz was forced out. Collins made a wild throw trying for a double and Griggs got to second. Devoy singled, scoring Griggs. Coombs was derailed for Krause, who held the visitors safe for the rest of the game. In the sixth and seventh the locals got busy with their bats and scored three more runs, assisted by a misjudged fly that dropped safe and a wild throw.

The Minneapolis shortstop, Oyler, was hit on the head by a pitched ball in the eighth inning of the first game and is now in a hospital. His condition is said to be serious. BULLFROG FARMING IS PROFITABLE

HOW THE INDUSTRY IS CARRIED ON IN FLORIDA.

Ample Market for Them and One Man Intends to Start the Culture of Frogs.

TO IMPROVE THE BREED NO ATTEMPT TO RUN CARS

The Hon. Pate Allen, Tampa and Hillsborough county's one and only original farmer of bullfrogs, a by-product of that edible commodity frog legs, will please take note that a rival has entered his hitherto undisputed field of commercial endeavor. The following is taken from the Pensacola News:

A well known gentleman of this city has recently received pamphlets from the department of agriculture on the raising of the large food bullfrog. It is the purpose of the gentleman to shortly start the culture of the frog on quite an extensive plan. It is also the intention of the gentleman to get a large collection of the best bullfrogs he can find and put them in a large marsh that is located near his place in Santa Rosa county, Florida. The gentleman cannot get into it. It is thought by the gentleman that he can thus raise a large number of healthy bullfrogs for the market and make a good profit out of the business.

"Cultivated" Frogs.

The gentleman had the following to say regarding the raising of frogs to an Evening News man:

"I have been living in Escambia and Santa Rosa counties for the last ten years, and have noticed the plenteousness of bullfrogs that are in the fresh water bodies in both counties. The frogs grow to monstrous size and seem to thrive in this section of the country. I think that a large and better grade of frog can be raised with proper care, and I think that the raising of the frog will make a comfortable living for the man who engages in the business. I shall attempt to raise frogs this summer."

"I wrote to the department of agriculture some months ago inquiring as to the method of raising the frog and have received a pamphlet giving me full directions as to the best methods of raising frogs in this section of the country. The government publishes a circular with the pamphlet, saying that there is unlimited opportunity for the culture of the frog in this section of the country. I understand from the circular that government experts came to the two counties a few years ago and made a thorough examination of the best manner of raising the frog."

"My intention is to fence in the marsh that is on my place and start a frog farm in it. I shall get all the snakes out of the place and keep it as clean as possible, so that the frogs will be healthy at all times. I shall have the enclosure large enough to accommodate a large number of the croakers."

An Ample Market.

"I believe that there is an ample market for them in Pensacola, as all of the restaurants and hotels buy them whenever they can. The reason for the great scarcity of frogs in the city at the present time is not that they are scarce, but that they are rather difficult to catch."

"I am a firm believer in the work and shall set out with an eye to succeed. If I do succeed in establishing a new industry for Pensacola and the surrounding country I hope the people of the county will take the matter up and see what they can do with it. It seems to me that all a man has to have is a mud puddle in his back yard and put some frogs in it, put a fence around it and feed the frogs. The climate is natural to them and they will thrive in spite of all efforts to exterminate them. If they are given a little attention a large high-grade frog can be raised."

Your First Trout.
(By May McHenry.)

Far back in the mountains I know of a hill That splashes mud dashes and never is still.

As it chafes o'er the rocks on its way down the hill, We will fish thereabout.

And thick overhead do the green branches lean, With only a glimpse of the sky to be seen.

And a shiver and quiver of sunlight between, That's a nibble, no doubt!

And the slippery rocks are all covered with moss, And the rush of the falls makes the spray leap and toss.

Is the pool deep and green where the foam whirls across—

And the wind sings a song through the trees, leech and pine, And the song of the water is sung all the time.

But the gayest of all is the song of the trout, Where you land your first trout.

OMAHA STRIKERS ENGAGE IN RIOT

EIGHT STRIKE BREAKERS INJURED, ONE FATALITY.

Police to the Rescue—One Man Was Injured While Protecting Woman and Child in His Car.

TO IMPROVE THE BREED NO ATTEMPT TO RUN CARS

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 23.—Eight strike-breakers were injured, one fatally, John Petrick, a by-stander shot through the hip and frog's legs, were partially demolished as the result of the street railway riots last night.

The injured men, except Patrick Petrick, are strike-breakers. Their names are unknown. James Fitzpatrick, another strikebreaker, was struck by missiles while attempting to shield a woman and child who were riding on his car. A car being switched to the barn at Twenty-fourth and Vinton streets was derailed at 8 o'clock by a partly open switch.

A crowd gathered, jeering the crew. Two other cars arriving, a blockade followed. A building in the course of construction furnished ammunition and every window and door in the car were quickly broken with stones and bricks. A squad of strike-breakers were rushed from the barn armed with switch irons and were about charging on the crowd when the officers arrived and checked the conflict.

Meanwhile a motor burned out on a car at Thirteenth and Vinton streets and the crowd there charged the car and handled the conductor and motor man roughly before they were rescued by officers. The crowd had gathered at Sixteenth and Vinton streets and as the officers came up with two strike-breakers several shots were fired, one of which struck Petrick.

Five cars were blocked two blocks west of where the shooting occurred, and the crowd looted the stores through the windows. Two of the men in charge of the cars were seriously injured. One was struck in the abdomen by a brick, and another on the head. Both were rescued by the police. One was unconscious.

Two cars in the northwest part of the city were attacked and smashed.

Two Million Victims of the Hookworm.

Marion Hamilton Carter, in telling about the hookworm victims of the South in the October McClure's says:

"One's first and strongest impression of the 'poor whites' is of their shiftlessness. I remember how dreadfully it used to depress me years ago when I spent my vacations in the North Carolina mountains. I have been in little windowless, stoveless one room cabins, the home of at least ten persons, where all the cooking was done over the primitive open fire—except when it rained down the chimney and put the fire out; then there wasn't any cooking till the rain held up! And as I talked with the women I was always asking myself, 'How can people live like this? Why don't they go to work and fix things up?'"

"It was only gradually that it dawned on me that they couldn't fix things up—they had barely enough energy to keep soul and body together, as it was. Everybody had a 'misery.' One had a 'misery of the heart,' another of the stomach, a third had 'the blot,' and a fourth was wasted to a skeleton. They tried to work, but they couldn't. It wasn't in them. One poor mother said that she and her husband were 'terrible discouraged,' for it seems like it takes all we-all make to pay the doctor; they ain't really any thing left to live on."

"A little middle girl lay on the bed beside her, and whispered to me proudly, 'I have spells—I have spells,' smiling happily at the distinction 'spells' conferred; the other children moved about the cabin like octogenarians."

"It is estimated that scattered over the Atlantic seaboard, from the Potomac, round the Gulf to the Mississippi river, there are today two millions of these poor whites—our native-born whites—suffering with anemia, and hardly one of those two millions, knows, or even suspects, that he is really suffering from an internal parasite—that his disease is caused by the hookworm."

She could not cook, She could not bake, She could not wield A garden rake; She could not sew, She could not darn, She could not knit, She could not read, And she could not A husband get; So she became A sufferingette And joined a club Whose motto said: "Till we can vote We shall not wed."

A Revelation in Front Laced Corsets

Objectionable Features Eliminated

The inventor of the first front-laced corset, and who for many years designed all of the Gossard Models, has perfected the Front-Laced Corset in the "HOWD."

These corsets are the result of many years of experimenting and are great improvements over any other corset of the character. They are exceptional because they produce narrower front than any other front-laced corset made. There are no darts or objectionable seams in this garment, but one unbroken line of beauty and comfort, giving correct posture and abdominal support, and modeled with equal care to fit all figures. In a word they have all the good features of other makes and none of the objectionable ones. A call will convince you of this fact. "Howd" Corsets now on sale in our corset section and will be fitted by an expert.

Brownsville Court of Review is Working Hard But Quietly on Case.

Washington, Sept. 23. (United Press.)—Working quietly but steadily in a little old building near the war department in this city, the commission appointed under authority of congress to investigate the Brownsville, (Texas) shooting scrape is engaged in the last effort to prove or disprove the participation in that affair of members of the twenty-fifth colored infantry, a whole battalion of whom were discharged from the army by President Roosevelt "without honor."

This celebrated case, which formerly occupied columns of space in the newspapers and became a political issue, has apparently dropped out of the public mind and nothing has been heard of it recently. There is, however, a tremendous amount of work being done upon it and when the labors are completed it is confidently expected that the question as to who "shot up" Brownsville will be pretty clearly established and that many of the colored soldiers who are punished for their alleged "conspiracy of silence" in the absence of direct proof that they actually took part in the affray, will be exonerated.

The commission, which is composed of retired army officers of high rank, is headed by Maj. Gen. S. M. H. Young. The recorder of the court is Captain Howland, a young officer attached to the judge advocate general's office, and probably no more arduous task was ever laid upon an army lawyer than that in which he is now engaged.

During the three years since the shooting occurred there have been seven or eight separate investigations of the affair, beginning with that made by the citizens of Brownsville themselves, running through several military inquiries, and ending with that made by the United States senate under the leadership of Senator Foraker.

The records of all of these investigations have been made part of the records of the present court. There were 353 different witnesses examined, many of them testifying at practically all of the investigations. Proceeding much like a supreme court in chambers, General Young's commission has been working all summer in sifting and arranging the testimony. Most of the preliminary work has fallen upon Recorder Howland. He has taken the testimony

River and Weather.

Appearance this morning were that there was a rise in the river but the gauge registered the same stand of 3.6 feet. There will be only a slight rise if any. Weather cloudy and business quiet.

Pilothouse Pointers.

Unable to get over the bars at the Sisters, the little side-wheel steamer Liberty, formerly of Cairo, was forced to return to the Paducah harbor yesterday until there is more water. She got aground and was somewhat damaged in getting off. Repairs will be made here. The boat, less than half the size of the Henry Harley, draws more water than the Evansville packet, the Harley being able to get over the bar without much difficulty.

No word from the Henry Harley but she is expected in port sometime today. She had her boilers cleaned at Evansville.

The gasoline boats Cutaway II, and Janey brought out a raft of logs containing about 125,000 feet of lumber from the Tennessee river yesterday, delivering it to Metropolis.

With a large and derrick boat the Nellie departed yesterday afternoon for the Tennessee river to load logs.

The installation of new boilers on the towboat J. N. Fischer was completed yesterday afternoon and she dropped down to the foot of Monroe street where she will be put in good trim from top to bottom.

Conway Graydon, mate of the Clyde, was unable to go out with his boat yesterday on account of illness and will wait over in Paducah until the next trip when he expects to go on duty again.

From very vague reports received here from the south considerable damage was done to river craft at and around New Orleans during the gulf storm. It is said that the Pittsburgh Coal company suffered a heavy loss of coal and barges while the Monongahela Consolidated Coal & Coke company lost 300 boats and barges of coal shipped there this summer. The West Kentucky Coal company, of Paducah, is believed to have escaped any loss. The flagship Harvester, lying up at Donaldsonville, La., with 30 empty barges is thought to have escaped, as well as 40 barges of coal at New Orleans.

C. M. Riker, general manager of the West Kentucky Coal company, left Paducah at 6 o'clock yesterday evening for New Orleans to investigate the reports and will look after the loss of the Pittsburgh Coal company. It was impossible to get any definite information on account of damaged telegraph wires.

What will be the fastest motor boat around Paducah or in this vicinity is in the process of construction at the Sherrill-Russell Lumber company and will be completed in a few weeks. It is being built for Bud Quirella, a motor boat enthusiast, and will be for speed. It will be 35 feet long with a narrow beam and driven by a 40-horse power engine, giving it a remarkable speed. The builders guarantee it to make the run to Metropolis and return in one hour flat or no sale.

Charles Miller, of Joppa, Ill., came to Paducah today and was granted mate's papers. He returned to Joppa and will go mate on the towboat T. H. Davis.

A stiff gale blew over the local harbor last night but no damage was suffered by river craft. The Reuben Dunbar, en route back to Paducah from Cairo, was forced to tie up to the Illinois shore near Joppa when the wind became too strong and was delayed several hours. She reached Paducah at 1 o'clock this morning.

The towboat Harth is expected back from the mines at Caseyville tomorrow with a tow of coal.

Rainfall for last night was .46 of an inch.

Capt. Jim Howard came back with the Liberty yesterday and is in the city.

Mr. Saunders A. Fowler left this morning for Mound City, Ill., to look after repairs being made to the Dick Fowler.

Dandierine

GROWS HAIR
and we can PROVE IT!

A lady from Minnesota writes:
"As a result of using Dandierine, my hair is close to five feet in length."

Beautiful Hair At Small Cost

HAIR troubles, like many other diseases, have been wrongly diagnosed and altogether misunderstood. The hair itself is not the thing to be treated, for the reason that it is simply a product of the scalp and wholly dependent upon its action. The scalp is the very soil in which the hair is produced, nurtured and grown, and it alone should receive the attention it results are to be expected. It would do no earthly good to treat the stem of a plant with a view of making it grow and become more beautiful—the soil in which the plant grows must be attended to. Therefore, the scalp in which the hair grows must receive the attention if you are to expect it to grow and become more beautiful.

Loss of hair is caused by the scalp drying up, or losing its supply of moisture or nutriment; when hairness occurs the scalp has simply lost all its nourishment, leaving nothing for the hair to feed upon (a plant or even a tree would die under similar conditions.)

The natural thing to do in either case, is to feed and replenish the soil or scalp as the case may be, and your crop will grow and multiply as nature intended it should.

Knowlton's Dandierine has a most wonderful effect upon the hair glands and tissues of the scalp. It is the only remedy for the hair ever discovered that is similar to the natural hair foods or liquids of the scalp.

It penetrates the pores quickly and the hair soon shows the effects of its wonderfully exhilarating and life-producing qualities.

One 2-cent bottle is enough to convince you of its great worth as a hair growing and hair resulting remedy—try it and see for yourself.

NOW at all druggists in three sizes, 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

COOK

PUBLISHER AND THEATRICAL MANAGERS ARE AFTER HIM.

Will First Prepare Records of Discovery Upon Which He Depends to Convince World.

New York, Sept. 23.—"Home" will not mean rest for Dr. Frederick A.
Cook for weeks yet. He arose after ten hours' sleep to find piled in the sitting room of his suite at the Waldorf-Astoria nearly 1,600 letters and telegrams from all parts of the world.
So he shut himself up with the young English secretary whom United States Minister Egan had sent with him from Copenhagen and went to work.

Dr. Cook will stay in his rooms practically all the time until tomorrow. Many of the letters are from theatrical managers, publishers commercial bodies and civic organizations offering engagements, or requesting speeches.

Dr. Cook has put all but the distinguishing touches to the first book narrative of his polar expeditions, but it is probable that he will write a series of magazine articles also. His first labor will be the preparation of the record of his discovery, upon which he depends to convince the scientific world that his claims are well founded. He has not commented on Commander Peary's decision to remain in comparative retirement until the question of polar supremacy is settled. Dr. Cook says he will make a trip through western states to lecture.

CORPSES SWEEP UP

The storm along the east gulf coast received today, indicate that the damage was even heavier than first reported. It is now definitely known that only one man lost his life at Bay St. Louis, a fisherman, name unknown, was drowned Monday. A number of other places are yet to be heard from, but it is not thought probable that any more loss of life will be reported.

The long railroad bridge at Bay
St. Louis is a complete wreck and it will be weeks before it is repaired.
When the storm struck the bridge
George Doherty, a Western Union line man, working out of New Orleans, was attempting to repair the wires so that communication could be re-established.

Doherty saw the storm was growing worse and started for the west end of the bridge. Before he had reached his railroad vehicle, a hundred yards away, the water was running on the tracks, and he left the machine to walk forward to see if the track was safe for him to proceed. He had hardly stepped from the machine before it was lifted high into the air and carried far out into the bay.

Held to Bridge Ties.

"I was thrown flat on the bridge and only saved myself by locking my arm around one of the ties," said Doherty. In describing his experience on his arrival here today. "There were three negroes in my gang, and they finally reached me. By that time the waves were tearing up the bridge, and we lashed a number of ties together with our wire, lashing it just as the section of the bridge on which we were standing was swept away."

"The waves were running at least 50 feet high, and if we had not lashed ourselves to the raft with wire we would have been drowned. The bridge went down Sunday, and we were washed around in the bay until Monday afternoon."

A 50 Cent Box of my Rheumatism Remedy Free.

Deformity in Chronic Rheumatism.

My Remedy has actually cured men and women seventy and eighty years of age—some were so decrepit that they could not even dress themselves. To introduce this great remedy I intend to give fifty thousand 50 cent boxes away, and every suffering reader of this paper is cordially invited to write for one. No money is asked for this 50 cent box neither now nor later, and if afterwards more is wanted I will furnish it to sufferers at a low cost. I found this remedy by a fortunate chance while an invalid from rheumatism and since it cured me, it has been a blessing to thousands of other persons. Don't be sceptical, remember the first 50 cent box is absolutely free. This is an internal remedy which goes after the cause of the trouble, and when the cause of rheumatism is removed, have no fear of deformities. Rheumatism in time will affect the heart, so do not trifle with this mercurial affliction. Address enclosing this adv., JOHN A. SMITH, 5417 Smith Bldg., Milwaukee, Wis.

LOUISVILLE MAN DERANGED.

C. F. Vogler Acts Wildly in Cincinnati—Is Held.

Cincinnati, Sept. 22.—C. Fred Vogler, said to be a counselman of Louisville, Ky., who had been missing three days and who is said to be mentally ill, is held in central police station. Vogler was taken into custody after an exciting scene in the automobile of Theatrical Manager James Pennessy at Sixth and Vine streets Sunday night. Pennessy sent his chauffeur into the Hotel Hotel to get a friend. While he was waiting Vogler jumped on the running-board and declared that he wanted to hire the automobile. Pennessy told him that the machine was engaged, and was with much difficulty taken to central station. Here he raved and tore at his cell bars. A telegram was sent to Louisville, and the word came back that Vogler had been missing for three days. He had said that he was going to visit friends at Newport, Ky., earlier in the day, sent a number of telegrams to friends in Louisville, and it was plain to those who received them that there was something wrong.

INTEREST PAID ON TIME DEPOSITS

UPPER BROADWAY SOUTH FROM 7 TO 10 O'CLOCK

PATROLMEN ARE EXONERATED

CHARGES AGAINST DENNINGTON AND WHITTEMORE PAID.

Commissioners Unanimous in Verdict But Every Reported Case Will Be Tried.

THEY SAY IT WAS SPITE WORK.

Patrolmen Whittemore and Dennington were dismissed of the charge of misconduct while on duty last night when the board of fire and police commissioners heard the evidence of the alleged "joy ride." The only point in the case was whether the police drove around Broadway after the finding of the horse and buggy had been reported to the police station, but they proved to the satisfaction of the commissioners that the horse stopped on the pavement a few minutes after he was taken in charge. Robert Hicks, former city license inspector, said he told Patrolmen Whittemore and Dennington that the horse was his and that it was he who drove the horse on the sidewalk. He said he was to blame and that it was all done in a spirit of fun.

Mayor Smith informed the members that charges of misconduct had been preferred against Patrolmen Whittemore and Dennington and he called the board together for an investigation. J. C. Pressnell, merchant policeman, was the first witness called, and he testified that he was at the fire station on North Fourth street when he heard loud talking and said Patrolmen Whittemore and Dennington and Mr. Hicks drove by and turned at Jefferson street a few minutes later. He said he walked to Broadway, and he saw the three men drive up to Louis Caporal's fruit stand. Somebody said: "Let's drive him up there," and while the horse was standing at the edge of the sidewalk, he said Mr. Hicks tapped the horse which walked upon the sidewalk and stuck his head in the door. He said he did not know who was driving, but Patrolman Whittemore told the horse off the sidewalk.

Dr. J. D. Robertson said he was in the fruit store talking when the two patrolmen said they found the horse and Mr. Hicks said it was his. He said he saw nothing out of the way.

Louis Caporal, proprietor of the store, said it was about 1:50 o'clock when the horse was driven on the sidewalk. Standing in the door he said he held the horse by the bit whether the buggy was on the sidewalk he said he did not know, and could he heard nothing said about giving the horse a glass of soda water.

Robert H. Hicks testified that he saw Patrolmen Whittemore and Dennington, and when they mentioned finding the horse and buggy he told them the rig was his. He stepped into the buggy and they made a circle over to Broadway from Fourth street. He said he took the lines from Patrolman Whittemore and stepped on the sidewalk but the buggy remained in the street. Patrolman Whittemore grabbed the lines quickly, he said, and the horse was backed off. The incident, he said, was done in the spirit of fun and he shouldered the blame.

Patrolman Whittemore said Hicks told a connected story. The rig was found in front of Gray's saloon on Fourth street, and was driven around to Broadway when Hicks claimed it. In a few minutes he said the horse was driven to the police station.

Patrolman Dennington said Pressnell had a grudge against him because they found two doors unlocked and did not tell him. He said Pressnell accused them of trying to beat him out of his job. In answer to questions of Mr. Pressnell, Patrolman Dennington denied they drove on North Fourth street.

Sergeant Ilse Cross said he knew of nothing irregular about the affair. Mr. Sutherland made a motion that the charge against the two patrolmen be dismissed. Mr. Hicks seconded it and the motion passed unanimously.

Present at the meeting were: Mayor Smith and Commissioners Frank Hicks, R. B. Sutherland and Mann Clark.

After the trial the commissioners said they considered Patrolmen Dennington and Whittemore among the best men on the police force, and were glad the charges were not proved. However, to keep harmony in the force no favorites will be played and every alleged violation will be investigated.

The Naval Orange.

The first we know of the naval orange, which is very valuable not only on account of its fine quality and taste, but also because of its being seedless, is of a single tree that was found growing on the northern shore of the Mediterranean sea. This was about the year 1545 or nearly 350 years ago. A monk in a monastery in that faraway country painted a picture of the fruit and wrote a description of it, both of which may be seen in the library of the Roman Catholic university at Washington, D. C. Grains of this tree were taken to Spain by the monks. From there they were carried to the West Indies by the Spaniards. It is now grown in many places in the West Indies.

Church Growth in America Shows It is Exceeding Population Increase.

Washington, Sept. 22.—That the church members in the United States numbered nearly thirty-three millions in 1906; that there were a billion and a quarter dollars invested in church edifices; that every day eight new churches were being sprung skyward; that more than half the total church membership; that a larger percentage of Catholic males than Protestant males were members; that in 16 states the majority of the total church membership were Roman Catholic; but that of the grand total church members reported for the United States 51.6 per cent were Protestants and 36.7 per cent Roman Catholics; these are the salient and conspicuous facts appearing in the proof sheets of a United States census bureau bulletin, prepared by Chief Statistician William C. Hunt, of the division of population, of the United States census bureau.

The bulletin will be issued this month. It is in the nature of an abstract of the comprehensive report, now in press, giving the results of the fifth census of religious bodies in the United States.

Few Male Members.
It is stated that United States census statistics of church membership by sex were collected for the first time in 1906. Of the total number of members reported by the various religious bodies and classified by sex, 43.1 per cent were males and 56.9 per cent females. Among the Protestants the difference was greater, only 39.3 per cent being males. In the Roman Catholic churches there were relatively more males, the number forming 49.3 per cent of the total membership.

Fewer males than females were found among the Latter-day Saints, the Lutherans, Disciples, Methodists, Baptists, Presbyterians and Protestants. Episcopians, the percentages of male members decreasing in the order shown, and there being but 25.5 per cent male among the Episcopalians. Among the Christian Scientists, only 21.6 per cent were males; and of the Shakers but 21.3 per cent; but, in the Greek Orthodox church, 93.9 per cent were male, as practically all Greek immigrants have been males.

DOCTOR ADVISED OPERATION

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Paw Paw, Mich.—"I suffered terribly from female ills, including inflammation and congestion, for several years. My doctor said there was no hope for me but an operation. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I can now say I am a well woman."

Another Operation Avoided.
Chicago, Ill.—"I want women to know what that wonderful medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, has done for me. Two of the best doctors in Chicago said I would die if I did not have an operation, and I never thought of seeing a well day again. I had a small tumor and female troubles so that I suffered day and night. A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it made me a well woman."

Mrs. ALVENA SHERLING, 11 Langdon St., Chicago, Ill.

Proportion to Population.
Of the total estimated population of continental United States in 1906, the church members formed 39.1 per cent, as against 32.7 per cent for 1890, amounting to 6.4 per cent more than in 1890 than in 1890. Of this 6.4 per cent increase, the Roman Catholic church is credited with 4.4 per cent and the Protestants with 1.8 per cent; the remainder being divided among all other denominations.

It is stated in the bulletin that the total number of members reported by the various religious bodies for 1906 was 32,935,415, of which number the Protestants were credited with 20,287,542, and the Roman Catholics with 12,079,142. Of the Protestant bodies the Methodists numbered 5,749,838, the Baptists, 5,662,234; the Lutherans, 2,112,194; the Presbyterians, 1,890,555; and the Disciples or Christians, 1,112,353.

Of the total of 32,935,415 church members, 51.6 per cent were Protestants; 36.7 per cent Roman Catholic, and 1.7 per cent members of other religious organizations. The rate of increase shown for the Roman Catholic church is 9.5 per cent, which is more than twice that for all the Protestant bodies combined. The Methodists reported 17.5 per cent of all Protestant church members; the Baptists, 17.2 per cent.

Increase in Organizations.
The total number of local religious organizations in 1906 is given as 212,279, an increase since 1890 of 40,079, or 28.5 per cent. The Protestants are credited with an increase in the particular amounting to 27.8 per cent, the Roman Catholic, 21.9 per cent, the Jewish congregations, 21.9 per cent, and the Latter-day Saints, 24.5 per cent.

The Methodists reported the largest number of local organizations, 84,701; the Baptists reported 81,880, the Presbyterians, 16,305; the Lutherans, 12,701; and the Roman Catholics 12,482.

Other interesting features of the bulletin are those showing that the total seating capacity of churches was 58,326,830, an increase over the 1890 United States census figures of 21.4 per cent; that the rate of increase was practically the same for both Protestants and Roman Catholics, and kept pace with the increase in population; and that $1,257,807 was invested in church edifices in 1906. The total amount of debt was $108,050,312, or 8.6 per cent of the total value; of this total the Protestant bodies owed $53,301,254, and the Roman Catholics, $49,488,055. In 16 states a majority of the church members were Roman Catholic; in 23 states, Protestant; and in one, Utah, Latter-day Saints.

THREE CHURCHES

WILL BE DEDICATED IN PADUCAH DISTRICT IN OCTOBER.

Bishop Hendrix Will Officiate at Ceremonies—News of the Methodists.

The Midland Methodist (Nashville) says:

"Bishop E. R. Hendrix will dedicate three churches in the Paducah district October 12, 13—viz., Arlington (Rev. R. H. Pigne, pastor), Wilekife (Rev. G. W. Evans, pastor), and Lone Oak (Rev. W. J. Naylor, pastor). These churches will be dedicated in the week days for want of time to do so on Sundays. There are two or three others that could be dedicated if the bishop had time."

"The Rev. W. A. Hanks, pastor of Oak Level circuit, writes: 'We have just closed the greatest meeting ever held at McKendree church, on this circuit. There were 75 conversions, with 54 accessions up to date and more to follow.' In this great meeting the pastor did all of the preaching, which was a great help. The Rev. W. A. Hanks will be the guest of the Paducah district at the meeting."

W. A. Hanks in a meeting at Pleasant Grove, on the Oak Level circuit, this week. The meeting bids fair to be a great one, but who would expect anything else with such a team? Pleasant Grove has the best church building in Marshall county, and is situated in the heart of the best farming section of the county. The membership is large and growing.

FISHING FOR SWORDFISH

ECLIPSES ANYTHING KNOWN TO AMATEUR FISHERMAN.

Plenty of Them Would Enjoy Tussle With Sixteen-Foot Fish, Whose Horns Would Endure Pierce Boating's Planking.

NOT UNMIXED WITH DANGER

A few sportsmen who visit the Massachusetts coast in the summer for big fishing become acquainted only with the sea bass and the shark, while the swordfish, remaining always in the open sea, is left to the men who fish not for sport but for a livelihood.

Yet if the lover of exciting sport should care to master the use of the harpoon and resort to the open sea for his diversion he would discover in the swordfish the swiftest swimmer, the hardest fighter and one of the most interesting denizens of the ocean.

Upon the appearance of swordfish in Cape Cod waters, most of the fishing vessels of the region, schooners and sloops, by reason of the mackerel season being ended until autumn, abandon their nets and take to the harpoon.

A pulpit is rigged on the forward end of the jibboom. On account of the pugnacious nature of the swordfish loose tackle is provided. A number of detachable harpoon darts, each carrying a sixty fathom line, are coiled around a painted keg bearing the owner's name, together with the eighteen foot harpoon shaft make the whole outfit.

The chief swordfishing territory of the Cape Cod region is the open sea stretching southward from No Man's Land. It was for this island, says St. Nicholas, that the Louisa, a forty-five foot auxiliary sloop, sailed about the middle of August, carrying provisions for a ten days' cruise.

Hornea Wellman, one time whaler, a master of the harpoon and the best swordfisherman around Cape Cod, was her skipper. Brooks and Kelly, the steward, made up the rest of the crew. As an extra man there was Thompson, who, although a good sailor, was inexperienced in swordfishing and correspondingly curious—a welcome addition, since it meant another pair of eyes aloft to look for fish.

Fifty Miles From Shore.
Fifty miles out from No Man's Land the first fish were sighted. The Louisa was making but little headway, the helmsman, his pipe dead, was dozing at his post, when Brooks, whose keen eyes had been sweeping the sea ahead, suddenly yelled, "Stabber! Har-d-a-stabber!"

A quarter of a mile away on the starboard bow were the two little black spots which, protruding like knife points above the water, marked the location of the possible first catch—or a shark. The main sheet was hauled in; Wellman caught the jibstay and swung to the pulpit on the jibboom.

Coming up to the fish properly is one of the problems in successful and profitable swordfishing. An unskilled party goes straight upon the prey, regardless of the position of the sun. In the present instance had the sloop with the sun on her port tackled straight to starboard, the mainsail would have cast its broad shadow far beyond the striking range of the man on the jibboom, and the fish would have dropped far below the surface. Accordingly a dexterous maneuver, the return tack, furling the sloop about with the two black fins between it and the sun.

The skipper was now seen to be unslung, the harpoon which had been lashed to the pulpit cage—the little iron rail against which the harpooner leans when he throws the iron. The men aloft were straining their eyes to see if the fish ahead were those of a swordfish or of a shark. It is often said that the fisherman's way of distinguishing between these two is by the shark's second dorsal fin, which is invisible unless he leaps from the water; but this is not really the fisherman's method. He tells them by their actions in the water, for the swordfish, if in motion at all—which he seldom is when harpooned—propels himself with a crosswise motion of the tail, giving force to the movement with a backward flip like the stroke of a canoe paddle, while the shark is always in motion and seals with his tail. Brooks, who had been watching apprehensively for the latter sign of the fin ahead, now gave a grunt of delight and sang out, "Hit him!"

Thrilling the Harpooner.
The purple body of the quarry could now be seen almost under the jibboom. The skipper's broad back bent like a bow, his right arm raised high and doubled forward with a savage downward thrust. There was a thud and a moment's anxious suspense, Wellman leaning far over to see the result of his throw.

In the interval Kelly threw the keg clear and stopped the engine, to avoid any danger of the screw cutting the trail rope. At the same moment there was a swirl of a white tail, a column of water marked the forward and downward into a gleaming ribbon of spray that

NO MORE GRAY HAIR.

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made and used a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair, and are fast following suit. The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready to use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. As a scalp tonic and color restorer, this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers, and it can be bought for 50 cents and $1 a bottle at almost any first-class drug store, or will be sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

ran out to sea with incredible swiftness, the painted keg lost in sight in the flying water. A chorus of whoops from aloft greeted the skipper as he swung to the crossreef.

"He was a big un," he grunted, "he was all of sixteen foot."

Already the painted keg had become a mere speck on the water and was still receding, but the crew of the Louisa made no effort to follow. Long experience has taught the swordfisherman the wisdom and the safety of allowing the catch to tire himself out before taking him aboard. To harpoon a swordfish with a line fast to the sloop would be the height of foolhardiness.

Once he reached the end of his rope he would in most cases turn and from being hunted play hunter—and a single thrust in the seams from his vicious snout would be enough to sink a sturdier vessel than a fishing sloop; but a painted keg, although it be carried five miles out to sea in repeated spurts of energy, is in the end the vanquisher, and marks the poor fish's whereabouts when the sloop puts a dory over to bring him in.

A Monarch of the Deep.
The next fish sighted was but a short distance away, no less showing. Instead a deep purple spot, singularly distinct, slid like a slowly moving under the bow. As the sloop came about the fish could be plainly seen under the water. Stately, king-like in his royal color he lay, motionless but for the slowly throbbing gills, his great eyes staring straight ahead as though he were unconscious or contemptuous of impending danger.

He was fully three feet under water, but the skipper was equal to the occasion. So neatly did he throw the iron that the water scarcely rippled, and in the usual second's pause before the first rush he still could be seen, quivering under the bow, his big tail curved over his back. Then he came straight upward. His snout shot above the bow, his tail threw up a mass of water that very nearly knocked Wellman from the pulpit and he was off so quickly that Kelly hardly had time to get the keg clear.

When but a quarter of a mile away he turned and headed for the sloop. She was sent ahead at full speed, but the prevention was needless, for the fish merely had his eye on the keg, encountered it and sent it spinning into the air with a glancing thrust of his horn, he made off in a foaming rage and was soon lost to sight. After half an hour of cruising about, the first keg was discovered about to the southwest, and Brooks went out in the dory to bring it in.

Landing a 700-pound swordfish is a business requiring more power than can be applied by four pairs of hands hauling away on a slippery rope. The main sheet was close hauled to prevent the boom from swinging too far to port. Wellman then made the fish line fast to the boom.

"Jibe her!" he called. Kelly put the wheel over and the boom, swinging across, landed the great fish in the middle of the cockpit.

It was past noon by this time, and while Kelly busied himself in his capacity as cook, young Thompson went out in the dory to get the second keg, the Louisa standing by to lend a hand in case of a mishap. Striding in the sixty fathoms of tugging rope proved a strenuous task for inexperienced hands; the dory persisted in giving way to stubborn resistance at the other end of the line, but when about half of the rope was in it suddenly dropped slack in the water.

This made the work easy, and Thompson was hauling away with great gusto when the skipper, who was watching the proceedings from aloft, roared: "Haul there—He's coming for the boat!"

Swordfish Attacks Boat.
Thompson jumped to the thwart. An ominous-looking wave was approaching at terrific speed; it split into a mass of flying spray, and with a crash the infuriated fish drove his sword completely through the bottom planking, split the seat and ripped one of Thompson's boots from ankle to top.

After repeated assaults with the butt of an oar Thompson at last succeeded in driving the fish's snout from the bottom—to have left him struggling long in the position would have spread the seams. With his sword free again this fish proved to be a most persistent fighter, and gave Thompson a severe grueling.

When the fish was finally brought to the surface, he was found to be a specimen of the species, and was taken to the wharf for sale.

such determination that the lad was forced to drop the line to avoid going overboard.

After twenty minutes of this sort of business he at last got the line through the snail hole, hauled the fish around and thrust the lance into the gills. A "Well done, lad!" from the crew greeted the sloop amply repaid him for his wetting and the demoralized condition of his new boots.

During the afternoon the sails of three other fishing vessels were in sight, and among them they very near spelled the fishing of the Louisa. The latter part of the day usually yields the best results, for then the swordfish, being a warmth-loving creature, comes to the surface to enjoy the sun. Four fish were sighted at a great distance, playing in the tide rips, leaping in the water like porpoises, but in each case one or the other of the stranger vessels, being closer, carried off the prize.

Just as the sun's rim was touching the horizon, however, six pairs of fins were sighted at once so close together that the same sloop could have picked them all off in less than fifteen minutes' time. The four vessels were down upon them like so many greedy gulls and they closed in, all within speaking distance of one another, the crew of each sloop being determined to make the entire catch.

To the fact that Wellman during this confusion kept his eye on the fish ahead and himself maneuvered the approach must be attributed the result: The Louisa, by going ahead in full speed regardless of the danger of her trail lines as the kegs went over, got three out of the six, much to the chagrin of her three rivals. By putting both dories over at once the whole catch was taken aboard before the afterglow had faded from the west.

The day's catch was a trifle better than the average. Twenty-one fish were taken during the ten days, amounting to nearly 7,000 pounds which, selling in the New Bedford market at eight cents a pound, make the cruise a profitable one for the skipper and his crew.

ARCTIC EXPLORER MEETS REPORTERS

FORTY NEWSPAPER MEN SUBJECT DR. COOK TO GRILLING.

Says He Did Not Know That Peary Was on His Way to Etah When He Met Whitney at Etah.

WILL TELL STRAIGHT STORY

New York, Sept. 23.—Dr. Cook denied himself to all interviewers and remained with his family in his suite at the Waldorf-Astoria until evening, when he submitted to a severe cross examination by forty newspaper representatives.

The material points in Cook's answer did not differ greatly from his original recital, but he readily and unhesitatingly answered all questions.

Asked to show his diary, he immediately consented, and passed around the note book, containing 176 pages, each filled with upward of fifty lines of pencilled writing of the most minute characters. The book, he said, contained more than one hundred thousand words. He has other books embracing observations and other data.

The interviewers were severe regarding details, but nothing indicated that the traveler's memory faulted in even the minutest particular. The only time he refused to reply was when Peary was mentioned. Then he said he had always and did now consider Peary his friend, but the controversy in connection with his rival could wait.

Will Let Whitney Talk.

When requested to say what occurred when he met Harry Whitney, Cook said he preferred to let Whitney tell his own story. His reasons for imposing secrecy on Whitney, Fritzbard and the Eskimos, were prompted by the desire that he himself should first tell the world of his discovery. Having done the work, he said he was entitled to relate how it was carried out. Asked whether he was willing to meet Peary in debate, Cook replied:

"As far as I am concerned the Peary incident is closed, Peary is not the dictator of my affairs and I don't care to say anything further about him."

"Did you know when you met Whitney on your return to Etah that Peary was going to start up at that time?"

"No."

"What caused you to intrust your instruments to Whitney?"

"I knew him by name, and circumstances arising while with him justified my confidence. I thought the instruments less liable to injury on his vessel than carrying them across the glaciers."

"What is the opinion of the story told by the negro Hanson of the information he obtained from your Eskimos?"

"The Eskimos were bound down by me not to tell any one where they had been. Hanson's testimony is entirely founded on hearsay."

Deluged With Telegrams.

A deluge of telegrams and cables was received by Dr. Cook and handed to his secretary. The explorer did not read the newspapers, and when the hour for the interview came, he was playing with his little girl on the floor.

An army of visitors called during the day, but only got as far as Cook's secretary. Among their proposals were offers of free accommodations at other hotels; promoters with schemes to make Cook rich, scores of offers of entertainment, private and public, but all persuasions were unheeded.

Peary Enroute Home.

Truro, N. S., Sept. 23.—Peary with his family left Sydney today and reached Truro, and later departed for Portland. Groups gathered at the railroad stations en route caught a glimpse of the explorer who was greeted at some places with hearty cheers.

Peary today received cablegrams inviting him to lecture before the Royal Scottish Geographical society in Edinburgh.

The invitation follows one for a lecture in London before the Royal Geographical society. At Eagle Island Peary will prepare his reports, also a statement on the question "has Cook been at the pole?" He said the statement will soon be made public.

McMillan Wants His Data.

Sydney, Sept. 23.—The sailing of the Roosevelt was delayed last night owing to the attempts to recover the records and other manuscripts taken from the steamer yesterday by souvenir hunters.

Prof. McMillan received information that the wife of a prominent citizen had admitted having abstracted certain papers from the professor's room. It was too late to ascertain if she really had the records that McMillan requested that the sniffling be delayed. The woman has denied taking the articles mentioned, although she admitted having taken some things from the professor's room.

GOOD SHEPHERD HOUSE HAS SPECIAL SERVICE.

A fine service was held at the Good Shepherd mission last night in spite of the threatened storm. Several singers from town were present and helped greatly with the music. Tonight the subject of Mr. Wright's sermon will be "The Prodigal's Older Brother." Service begins at 7:30.

Message From Memphis.

Memphis, Sept. 23.—Floella remained in this port last night and left this morning for Cairo and St. Louis.

"That woman over there is always boasting of her family tree." "From the looks of her it must have been a peach."

Experience is an excellent school master, but he does charge such dreadful wages!

RING WORM AND DANDRUFF

They Are Each Caused by a Proliferous Germ.

Ring worm and dandruff are somewhat similar in their origin; each is caused by a parasite. The germ that causes dandruff digs to the root of the hair, and says its vitality, causing falling hair, and, finally, baldness. Without dandruff there would never be baldness, and to cure dandruff it is necessary to kill the germ. There has been no hair preparation that would do this until the discovery of Newbro's Herpicide, which positively kills the dandruff germ, always itching instantly and makes hair glossy and soft as silk. Take no substitutes. There is nothing "just as good." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. $1.00 bottles guaranteed. R. W. RAILROAD NOTES

Work will continue plenty at the Illinois Central railroad shops for several months yet, and there is little prospect for either a decrease in force or working hours. Superintendent A. H. Egan was in the city this morning and he said business is good and he does not look for any decrease but expected an increase. The demand for coal cars is heavy now, but so far the railroads have been able to meet the demand. The yards are full of bad order cars, and there is sufficient work to keep the present force busy for several months.

Superintendent A. H. Egan and Assistant Superintendent L. E. McCabe went to Princeton this morning.

W. C. Waggoner, of Princeton, was in the city last night.

Evan Prosser, of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, was in the city last night on business.

BACK HOME

WENT WILLIAM McPHERSON, A WOULD-BE RECRUIT.

He Passed Fine Physical and Moral Examination But Suffered From Nostalgia.

The only defect that kept William McPherson, of Murray, from joining the ranks of Uncle Sam's army was his own reluctance. McPherson was enlisted at Murray Monday by Sergeant Joseph Kresky, of Paducah, and brought here yesterday afternoon upon arriving at the local recruiting station he was examined and passed all physical requirements, but this morning he returned home. McPherson wanted to enlist at Murray, but thoughts of home would obtrude and when he reached Paducah he concluded he might better break his engagement with Uncle Sam in Paducah than go to Jefferson Barracks, where there was no excuse to give up.

Sergeant Blake yesterday afternoon enlisted Thomas F. Peebles, of Hazel, Ky., who was accepted by Capt. G. W. Kirkpatrick and sent to Jefferson Barracks, St. Louis, this morning. He will do service in the field artillery. Sergeant Kresky will leave next Monday for Anna, Ill. to receive new men for three days. Captain Kirkpatrick returned to Evansville this morning.

News of Theatres

Probably the greater portion of Paducah knows that Gertrude Ewing and her excellent company is to appear at the Kentucky theater for a week's engagement starting Monday night, September 27. For the opening piece, Miss Ewing has selected a dramatization of Ouldas picturesque military play, "Under Two Flags." Miss Ewing will be seen to an advantage in the play as the part of "Claret" offers her many opportunities.

There is much good comedy throughout the play to enliven the situation and each part is calculated to show to good advantage the entire company. Ladies are to be admitted free on the opening night under the usual conditions. One lady and gentleman or two ladies will be admitted on one 30 cent ticket, if reserved at the seat sale before 6 o'clock Monday.

Vaudeville plays a big part with the company and six high class artists are carried, headed by the Desmond trio, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Menuts, Harry Dentery and others.

Ranking foremost among the stellar attractions that are booked to appear here in the near future is Florance Earle in the merry musical comedy, "Fluffy Ruffles." Just as she did last season in "Marrying Mary," Miss Gear is this season in "Fluffy Ruffles" captivating her audiences everywhere by the subtle charm of her own personality, the original methods she pursues as a comedienne, the splendid tonal qualities of her singing voice, and the rare beauty of her face and figure.

The premier of all rural plays, "Way Down East," will begin an engagement at The Kentucky theater as one of the season's first attractions, and with it will come all the quaint characters that during the past twelve years of its existence has made it a household name. The same Squire Bartlett—kind-hearted but rudely just; Pretty Anna Mored—with her trials and woes; Sol's Holcomb—with his "Long Life" letters; the intangible constable, Rube Whipple, and last but not least, Ed Holler, he of the wondrous and humorous laugh. They will be supported by a large and competent company of players, assisted by the choir from the village church. The faro stock will also be in evidence, also the snow storm; preparations having been made to give the play a perfect production.

Nothing is easy to the unwilling.
